

When Snow Falls

Deb Strain

Winters in Ohio can be blustery and cold, but there is a genuine beauty to this season. My favorite days are the ones when the clean, white snow blankets everything in view. It's always a treat when I am fortunate enough to see a red cardinal flitting from tree to tree or a tiny speck of grey and black where the chickadee roosts.

In "When Snow Falls," I've perched these 2 special birds in warm and cozy winter stockings, hats and mittens to keep them warm. The toasty, textured winter wear is filled with greenery and tied with a jingle bell - adding a little whimsy to the scene. Traditional tones of red and greens have been used in prints and patterns filled with cardinals, chickadees, jingle bells, snowflakes and mistletoe. A second panel is included in this collection with pre-printed stockings illustrated with cardinals, chickadees, greenery and jingle bells!

I can just imagine my winter, feathered friends, tucked into their snug stockings, hats or mittens, watching the snow fall. As Antoinette VanKleef says "When snow falls, nature listens."
